A CHARITY FOR SUPPORTING UNDERPRIVILEGED KIDS

A worthy cause charity organization collects data and analyzes trends in intercommunal violence in isolated areas of central Africa via our Crisis Tracker database and conflict mapping tool. We provide in-depth, up-to-date analysis on these trends to humanitarians, conservation experts, local peacebuilding partners, and others working in the region.

Equipped with reliable data, information, and expert analysis, they are able to make better decisions for preventing violence and providing communities with vital services.

THIS WEEK'S UPDATES

HUMANITARIAN ASSISTANCE FOR LRA SURVIVORS: Our advocacy campaigns have helped to secure more than $40 million of U.S. government humanitarian assistance to LRA-affected communities in DRC and CAR.

EXPANDING LIFE-SAVING EARLY WARNING SYSTEMS: With support from donors like the U.S. agency for International Development (USAID) and the U.S. Department of State, we have expanded our community-based Early Warning System to more than 165 highly remote communities in DRC, CAR, and South Sudan. This program helps vulnerable populations to improve their safety by sharing life-saving information with each other and employing local violence-prevention strategies.

A WORTHY CAUSE CHARITY

CHANGED IN TEN

PEACE IN CENTRAL AFRICA REMAINS.

We were founded in 2004 to help end two decades of mass violence and child abductions by Joseph Kony and his Lord's Resistance Army (LRA), which was once considered "the world's most neglected humanitarian crisis." After years of trailblazing international awareness campaigns, political advocacy, and on-the-ground community protection programs in areas of central Africa facing active LRA violence, we have seen a 92% reduction in killings by the LRA and the peaceful defection of dozens of LRA fighters, including senior leaders.

As LRA violence has reduced and other threats in central Africa have emerged, we have dynamically adapted to meet the changing needs of central African communities. We expanded our on-the-ground programs and conflict analysis to help local peacebuilders and their communities develop innovative methods to prevent violence and build sustainable peace. And these days, we work with talented Central African filmmakers in communities impacted by violence to help them tell their own stories and promote peace.

In 10 years, we have accomplished a lot, learned a lot, and changed a lot (we're sure you have, too) – but that same conviction still drives us forward. We would love for you to join us on the exciting journey ahead.

From the beginning, we were driven by the conviction that every human being has inherent dignity and deserves to live free from the threat of
